THEATRICAL AND OTHERWISE.

News and Comment of Stage Matters and Other Gossip.

Julia Marlowe will produce her new play "When Knighthood Was In Flower," in New York next October.

About the middle of next month Otis Skinner will produce in Chicago a dramatization of Robert Louis Stevenson's story "Prince Otto."

Eddie Foy will be the leading comedian in "The American Beauty" production in London. June Stone, of Louisville, will also be a comedian in the cast.

The Frankfort opera house has been leased to A. H. Blanton for $51 per year for a term of three years. L. H. Ramsey, of Lexington, was a bidder for the house.

Olga Nethersole's trial in New York for offending the public decency in producing "Sapho" has been set April 3rd. Congress has been asked to bar "Sapho" from the mails.

Julia Arthur's health has caused her to cancel all of her remaining engagements for this season, and she will retire temporarily from the stage. If she appears next year it will be in Shakespearean plays.

The sale of seats for Manfield's performance of "The First Violin" at Lexington on Thursday night, the 29th, began with a rush yesterday morning, but there still many choice seats left. "The First Violin" is the prettiest play in his repertoire.

Joseph Jefferson will deliver a lecture at the Newsboys Home benefit on Sunday April 8th at Macauley's theatre. The entertainment will be opened with prayer by Bishop Dudley or Rev. Carter Helm Jones, and dismissed by Rabbi Moses. An orchestra of twenty-five pieces and a chorus of 100 voices will give a musical program.

Americans are to see a dramatization of Victor Hugo's great novel, "Les Misérables," next season, with Mr. Wilton Lackaye in the role of Jean Valjean. Leblanc & Co. have secured the version which Coquelin has used so successfully in Paris this season, and it will be adapted to the American stage.

"Brown's In Town," the brightest and merriest farce of the season, will furnish an evening of fun, fast and furious, for the Paris theatre-goers Friday night at the Grand. The play is funnier than "Why Smith Left Home" or "What Happened To Jones," and was constructed solely for laughing purposes. The company is headed by Mark Swan, the author, C. W. Horn, Jessie Mae Hall, the exceptionally clever singer and dancer, Maud Knowlton, W. Callison, Fannie Midgely, Monice Lee, G. Ebner, Mannie Ward and others. "Brown's In Town" comes highly recommended and will attract a good audience. The fun is clean and wholesome and plentiful enough to satisfy everybody.

The gold statue of "The American Girl," which is to be exhibited at the Paris Exposition, was successfully cast last week. Miss Maude Adams, the actress, was the model, and Mrs. Bessie Potter Vonnah was the sculptor. The statue mounted on its base will be six feet in height, the figure being of Miss Adams own height. It weighs 712 pounds, and the bullion used is valued at $184,000. Miss Adams' gown is of the simplest sort. It is a summer dress of chiffon. Lace ruffles extend its length, and, gathered at the waist, they give a kind of blouse effect at the bosom. The sleeves are tight from shoulder to wrist and the arms droop to full length on both sides. The hair waves back from the forehead and is parted slightly to the left. The pose is that of taking a step forward denoting "Progress."

Announcements of the Visit of the Stork to Paris and Vicinity.

Near Cane Ridge, Sunday, to the wife of J. W. Johnson, a son.

In East Paris, Saturday, to the wife of Joseph Eales, a son—Robert Earle Eales.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ramp, of Eighth street, in this city, are the proud parents of fine twins—a son and daughter—which arrived Sunday morning. The babes each weigh eight pounds. Mr. Ramp is an L. & N. passenger brakeman.

On J. D. Butler's place recently a ewe dropped three lambs and a two-year-old heifer dropped a calf on the same day. One of the lambs was held up to get milk from the heifer and when placed on the ground the heifer licked the lamb and has adopted it and is raising it up with her calf.

WE MUST GROW OLD.

We must grow old! The years go by. Sometimes on wings they seem to fly. But why such haste? We must grow old! We only know that we grow old!

Sometimes, alas! the years they go As if with leaden feet, so slow We faint from pain. We cannot know Wherefore or why, but we grow old!

Each vanished year its own sad tale Of disappointment, woe and pain, Adds to the score, until we fail, Since we grow old! We must grow old!

The broken links of life's short chain Can never find their place again; The heart will bleed when pierced with pain, When loved ones die, and we grow old.

Into the dark unknown we take The hopes of fortune could not shake, Pure as the mountain's snowy flake, Where all is well—when we are old. —Timothy Thomas Fortune, in N. Y. Sun.

A stirring story of Army life in the Philippines

CHAPTER VI.

The great thoroughfare of that wonderful city, seated on more than her seven hills, and ruling the western world, was thronged from curb to curb. Gay with bunting and streamers, the tall buildings of the rival newspapers and the long facades of hotels and business blocks were gayer still with the life and color and enthusiasm that crowded every window. Street traffic was blocked. Cable cars clanged vainly and the police strove valiantly. It was a day given up to but one duty and one purpose, that of giving Godspeed to the soldiery ordered for service in the distant Philippines, and, though they hailed from almost every section of the union, except the Pacific slope, as though they were her own children, with all the hope and faith and pride and patriotism, with all the blessings and comforts with which she had loaded the foremost ships that sailed, yet happily without the tears that flowed when her own gallant regiment was first to lead the way, San Francisco turned out en masse to cheer the men from far beyond the Sierras and the Rockies, and to see them proudly through the Golden Gate. Early in the day the guns of a famous light battery had been trundled, decked like some rose-covered chariot at the summer festival of flowers, through the winding lanes of eager forms and faces, the cannoneers almost dragged from the ranks by the clasping hands of men and women who seemed powerless to let go. With their little brown carbines tossed jauntily over the broad blue shoulders, half a regiment of regular cavalry dismounted, had gone trudging down to the docks, cheered to the gateway of the pier by thousands of citizens who seemed to envy the very recruits who, only half-uniformed and drilled, brought up the rear of the column. Once within the massive wooden portals, the guards and sentries holding back the importunate crowd, the soldiers flung aside their heavy packs, and were marshalled before an array of tempting tables and there feasted, comforted and rejoiced under the ministrations of that marvelous successor of the sanitary commission of the great civil war of the sixties—the order of the Red Cross. There at those tables in the dust and din of the bustling piers, in the soot and heat of the railway station, in the jam and turmoil at the ferry houses, in the fog and chill of the seaward camps, in the fever-haunted wards of crowded field hospitals, from dawn till dark, from dark till dawn, topped week after week devoted women in every grade of life, the wife of the millionaire, the daughter of the day laborer, the gentle born, the delicately reared, the social pets and darlings, the humble seamstress, no one too high to stoop to aid the departing soldier, none too poor or low to deny him cheer and sympathy. The war was still young then. Spain had not lowered her riddled standard and sued for peace. Two great fleets had been swept from the seas, the guns of Santiago were silenced, and the stronghold of the orient was sulking in the shadow of the flag, but there was still soldier work to be done, and so long as the nation sent its fighting men through her broad and beautiful gates San Francisco and the Red Cross stood by with eager, lavish hands to heap upon the warrior sons of a score of other states, even as upon their own, every cheer and comfort that wealth could purchase, or human sympathy devise. It was the one feature of the war days of '98 that will never be forgotten.

At one of the flower-decked tables near the great "stage" that led to the main deck of the transport, a group of blithe young matrons and pretty girls had been busily serving fruit, coffee and bouillon and substantial to the troopers, man after man, for over two hours. There was lively chat and merry war of words going on at the moment between half a dozen young officers who had had their eyes on that particular table ever since the coming of the command, and were now making the most of their opportunities before the trumpets should sound the assembly and the word be passed to move aboard. All the heavy baggage and ammunition had, at last, been swung into the hold; the guns of the battery had been lowered and securely chocked; the fore-castle head was thronged with the red trimmed uniforms of the artillerymen, who had already been embarked and were now jealously clamoring that the troopers should be "shut off" from the further ministrations of the Red Cross, and broadly intimating that it wasn't a fair deal that their rivals should be allowed a whole additional hour of lingering farewells.

Lingering farewells there certainly were. Many a young soldier and many a lass "paired off" in little nooks and corners among the stacks of bales and boxes, but at the table nearest the staging all seemed gay good humor. A merry little woman with straw-colored hair and pert, tip-tilted nose and much vivacity, and complexion, had apparently taken the lead in the warfare of chaff and fun. Evidently she was no stranger to most of the officers. Almost as evidently, to a very close observer who stood a few paces away, she was no intimate of the group of women who with good right regarded that table as their special and personal charge. Her Red Cross badge was very new; her garb and gloves were just as fresh and spotless. She had not been lading out milk and cream, or buttering sandwiches, or pinning souvenirs on dusty blue blouses ever since early morning. Other faces there showed through all their smiles and sweetness the traces of long days of unaccustomed work and short nights of troubled sleep. Marvelous were Mrs. Frank Garrison's recuperative powers, thought they who saw her brought home in the Primes' stylish carriage, weak and helpless and shaken after her adventure of the previous day. She had not been at the Presidio a week and yet she pervaded it. She had never thought of such a thing as the Red Cross until she found it the center of the social firmament after her arrival at San Francisco, and here she was, the last comer, the foremost ("most forward") I think some one described it) in their circle at one of the most prominent tables, absorbing much of the attention, most of the glory, and none of the fatigue that should have been equally shared by all.

"Adios!" she gayly cried, as the "assembly" rang out, loud and clear, and waving their hands and raising their caps, the officers hastened to join their comrades. "Adios, till we meet in Manila."

"Do you really think of going to the Philippines, Mrs. Garrison?" queried a much older looking, yet younger woman. "Why, we were told the general said that none of his staff would be allowed to take their wives."

"Yet there are others!" laughed Mrs. Garrison, waving a dainty handkerchief toward the troops now breaking into column of twos and slowly climbing the stage. "Who would want to go with that blessed old undertaker? Good-by—bon voyage, George!" she cried, blowing a kiss to the lieutenant at the head of the second troop, a youth who blushed and looked confused at the attention thereby centered upon him and who would fain have shaken his fist, rather than waved the one unoccupied hand in perfunctory reply. "When I go I'll choose a ship with a band and broad decks, not any such cramped old canal boat as the Portland."

"Oh! I thought perhaps your husband," began the lady, dubiously, but with a significant glance at the silent faces about her.

"Who? Frank Garrison? Heavens! I haven't known what it was to have a husband—since that poor dear boy went on staff duty," promptly answered the diminutive center of attraction, a merry peal of laughter ringing under the dingy archway of the long, long roof. "Why, the Portland has only one stateroom in it big enough for a band-box, and of course the general has to have that, and there isn't a deck where one couple could turn a slow waltz. No, indeed! wait for the next flotilla, when our fellows go, bands and all. Then we'll see."

"But surely, Mrs. Garrison, we are told the war department has positively forbidden officers' wives from going on the transports"—again began her interrogator, a wistful look in her tired eyes. "I know I'd give anything to join Mr. Dutton."

"The war department has to take orders quite as often as it gives them, Mrs. Dutton. The thing is to know how to be of the order giving side. Oh, joy!" she suddenly cried. "Here are the Primes and Amy Lawrence—then the regiments must be coming! And there's Stanley Armstrong!"

Far up the westward street the distant roar of voices mingled with the swing and rhythm and crash of martial music. Dock policemen and soldiers on guard began boring a wide lane through the throng of people on the pier. A huge black transport ship lay moored along the opposite side to that on which the guns and troopers were embarked, and for hours bales, boxes and barrels had been swallowed up and stored in her capacious depths until now, over against the tables of the Red Cross, there lay behind a rope barrier, tall stretched and guarded by a line of sentries, an open space close under the side of the greater steamer and between the two landing stages, placed fore and aft. By this time the north tide of the broad pier was littered with the inevitable relics of open air luncheon, and though busy hands had been at work and the tables had been cleared, and fresh white cloths were spread and everything on the tables began again to look fair and inviting, the good fairies themselves looked askance at their bestrewn surroundings.

"Oh, if we could only move everything bodily over to the other side," wailed Madam President, as from her perch on a stack of Red Cross boxes she surveyed that coveted stretch of clean, unhampered flooring.

"And why not?" chirruped Mrs. Garrison, from a similar perch, a tier or two higher. "Here are men enough to move mountains. All we have to do is to say the word."

"Ah, but it isn't," replied the other, gazing wistfully about over the throng of faces, as though in search of some one sufficient in rank and authority to serve her purpose. "We plead in vain with the officer-of-the-guard. He says his orders are imperative—to allow no one to intrude on that space," and madam looked as though she would rather look anywhere than at the animated sprite above her.

"What nonsense!" shrilled Mrs. Garrison. "Here, Cherry," she called to a pretty girl, standing near the base of the pile, "give me my bag. I'm army woman enough to know that order referred only to the street crowd that sometimes works in on the pier and steals." The bag was duly passed up to her. She cast one swift glance over the heads of the crowd to where a handsome carriage was slowly working its way among the groups of prettily-dressed women and children—friends and relatives of members of the departing commands, in whose behalf, as though by special dispensation, the order excluding all but soldiers and the Red Cross had been modified. Already the lovely dark-eyed girl on the near side had waved her hand in greeting, responding to Mrs. Garrison's enthusiastic signals, but her companion, equally lovely, though of far different type, seemed preoccupied, perhaps unwilling to see, for her large, dark, thoughtful eyes were engaged with some object on the opposite side—not even with the distinguished looking soldier who sat facing her and talking quietly at the moment with Mr. Prime. There was a gleam of triumph in Mrs. Garrison's dancing eyes as she took out a flat notebook and pencil and dashed off a few lines in bold and vigorous strokes. Tearing out the page, she rapidly read it over, folded it and glanced imperiously about her. A cavalry sergeant, one of the home troop destined to remain at the Presidio, was leaning over the edge of the pier, hanging on to an iron ring and shouting some parting words to comrades on the upper deck, but her shrill soprano cut through the dull roar of deep, masculine voices and the tramp of feet on resounding woodwork.

"Sergeant!" she cried, with quick decision. "Take this over to the officer in command of that guard. Then bring a dozen men and move these two tables across the pier." The cavalryman glanced at the saucy little woman in the stunning costume, "took in" the gold crossed sabres, topped by a regimental number in brilliant, that pinned her martial collar at the round, white throat, noted the ribbon and pin and badge of the Red Cross, and the symbol of the Eighth corps in red enamel and gold upon the breast of her jacket, and above all the ring of accustomed authority in her tone, and never hesitated a second. Springing to the pile of boxes he grasped the paper, respectfully raised his cap and bowed his stalwart way across the pier. In three minutes he was back—half a dozen soldiers at his heels.

"Where'd you have 'em, ma'am—miss?" he asked, as the men grasped the supports and raised the nearest table.

"Straight across and well over to the edge," she answered, in the same crisp tones of command. Then, with total and instant change of manner, "I suppose your tables should go first, Madam President," she smilingly said. "It shall be as you wish about the others."

And the Red Cross was vanquished. "I declare," said an energetic official, a moment later, leaning back on her throne of lemon boxes and fanning herself vigorously, "for a whole hour I've been trying to move that officer's heart and convince him the order didn't apply to us. Now how did—she—do it?"

"The officer must be some old—some personal friend," hazarded the secretary, with a quick feminine comprehensive glance at the little lady now being lifted up to shake hands with the carriage folk, after being loaded with compliments and congratulations by the ladies of the two favored tables.

"Not at all," was the prompt reply. "He is a volunteer officer she never set eyes on before to-day. I would like to know what was on that paper."

But now the roar of cheering and the blare of martial music had reached the very gateway. The broad portals were thrown open and in blue and brown, crushed and squeezed by the attendant throng, the head of the column of infantry came striding on to the pier. The band, wheeling to one side, stood at the entrance, playing them in, the rafters ringing to the stirring strains of "The Liberty Bell." They were still far down the long pier, the sloping rifles just visible, dancing over the heads of the crowd. No time was to be lost. More tables were to be carried, but—who but that—"that little army woman" could give the order so that it would be obeyed. Not one bit did the president like to do it, but something had to be done to obtain the necessary order, for the soldiers who so willingly and promptly obeyed her beck and call were now edging away for a look at the newcomers, and Mrs. Frank Garrison, perched on the carriage step and chatting most vivaciously with its occupants and no longer concerning herself, apparently, about the Red Cross or its tables, had the gratification of finding herself approached quite as she had planned, by two most prominent and distinguished women of San Francisco society, and requested to issue instructions as to the moving of the other tables. "Certainly, ladies," she responded, with charming smiles. "Just one minute, Mildred. Don't drive farther yet," and within that minute half a dozen boys in blue were lugging at the first of the tables still left on the crowded side of the dock, and others still were bearing oil stoves, urns and trays. In less time than it takes to tell it the entire Red Cross equipment was on its way across the pier, and when the commanding officer of the arriving regiment reached the spot which he had planned to occupy with his band, his staff and all his officers, there in state and ceremony to receive the citizens who came in swarms to bid them farewell, he found it occupied by as many as eight snow, goody-laden tables, presided over by as many as 80 charming maids and matrons, all ready and eager to comfort and revive the inner man of his mighty regiment with coffee and good cheer illimitable, and the colonel swore a mighty oath and pounced on his luckless officer of the guard. He had served as a subaltern many a year in the old army, and knew how it was done.

"Didn't I give you personal and positive orders not to let anything or anybody occupy this space after the baggage was got aboard, sir?" he demanded.

"You did, sir," said the unabashed lieutenant, pulling a folded paper from his belt, "and the Red Cross got word to the general and what the Red Cross says—goes. Look at that!"

The colonel looked, read, looked dazed, scratched his head and said: "Well, I'm damned!" Then he turned to his adjutant. "You were with me when I saw the general last night and he told me to put this guard on and keep this space clear. Now, what'd you say to that?"

The adjutant glanced over the penciled lines. "Well," said he, "if you s'pose any order that discriminates against the Red Cross is going to hold good, once they find it out, you're bound to get left. They're feasting the first company now, sir; shall I have it stopped?" and there was a grin under the young soldier's mustache. The colonel paused one moment, shook his head and concluded he, too, would better grin and bear it. Taking the paper in his hand again he heard his name called and saw smiling faces and beckoning hands in an open carriage near him, but the sight of Stanley Armstrong, signaling to him from another, farther away, had something dominant about it. "With you in a minute," he called to those who first had summoned him. "What is it, Armstrong?"

"I wish to present you to some friends of mine—Miss Lawrence—Miss Prime—Mr. Prime—my old associate, Col. Stewart. Pardon me, Mrs. Garrison. I did not see you had returned." She had, and was once more perched upon the step. "Mrs. Garrison—Col. Stewart. What we need to know, Stewart, is this: Will all your men board the ship by this stage, or will some go aft?"

"All by this stage—why?" But the colonel felt a somewhat massive hand crushing down on his arm and forebore to press the question. Armstrong let no pause ensue. He spoke, rapidly for him, bending forward, too, and speaking low; but even as she chatted and laughed, the little woman on the carriage step saw, even though she did not seem to look, heard, even though she did not seem to listen:

"An awkward thing has happened. The general's tent was robbed of important papers perhaps two days ago, and the guard-house rid of a most important prisoner last night. Canker has put the officer-of-the-guard in arrest. Remember good old Billy Gray who commanded us at Apache? This is Billy Junior, and I'm awfully sorry." Here the soft gray eyes glanced quickly at the anxious face of Miss Lawrence, who sat silently feigning interest in the chat between the others. The anxious look in her eyes gave way to sudden alarm at Armstrong's next words: "The prisoner must have had friends. He is among your men, disguised, and detects." A low cry came from her lips, for Mrs. Garrison dropped at the instant and lay half under the wheels in a deathlike swoon upon the dock.

The Reason Why.

A gentleman was riding on one of the coaches in the Trossachs of Scotland, when the driver said to him: "I've had a coin give me to-day 200 years old. Did you ever see a coin 200 years old?"

"Oh, yes," was the reply. "I have one myself 2,000 years old."

"Ah," said the driver, "have ye?" And he spoke no more during the rest of the journey.

When the coach arrived at its destination the driver came up to the gentleman with an intensely self-satisfied air and said:

"I told you as we came along that I had a coin 200 years old."

"Yes."

"And you said to me as you had one 2,000 years old."

"Yes, so I have."

"Now, you be a liar!"

"What do you mean by that?"

"What do I mean? Why—it's only 1899 now!"—London Answers.

RAILROADS IN CUBA.

A Canadian Syndicate Proposes to Get Control of All the Mileage and Make It Into One System.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 25.—President T. G. Shaughnessy, of the Canadian Pacific railroad, accompanied by Directors H. S. McDougall, R. B. Angus, and C. R. Hosmer, are here en route home from Cuba. While here it was learned that these magnates have been in Cuba inspecting the railroads of the island with a view to obtaining control of all the railroad mileage and consolidating it into one system.

Sir William VanHorne, of Montreal it is said, has been conferring with Secretary Root about the proposed deal, and President Shaughnessy thinks it will be effected. In the event the deal is consummated, it is proposed to extend railroad lines through rich agricultural and mineral regions of the island, to fit up resorts for tourists, equip roads with new and modern rolling stock, and quicken the schedules.

Havana, March 26.—Gov. Gen. Wood has recently had interviews with persons of influence who have strenuously urged the taxation of valuable properties, rather than on each bag of sugar, as it is manufactured. Those who hold this view contend that under the present system impediments are thrown in the way of production.

They point out that many valuable estates have been lying idle and unproductive for years, some even having complete sugar plants. The owners, who are rich men, are living in Paris, Madrid and other European cities, quite untaxed for their property in Cuba.

Gen. Wood feels that if these properties are taxed their owners will be forced either to sell or to make them productive.

FIFTY-FIVE LIVES SAVED.

Thirty Stranded Colonists and 25 Shipwrecked Seamen Landed in New York.

New York, March 26.—Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Olinda from Cuban ports were 30 stranded colonists from La Gloria and 25 shipwrecked seamen. Twenty of the latter are from the Norwegian steamer Framnes, which was swept ashore by currents on Hog Sty reef in the Bahamas on the night of March 21 and became a total loss as already reported. The crew landed on the reef with provisions and the chief officer and four seamen put off in a boat to go to Inagua for assistance. They were picked up by the steamer Adm. Schley and landed at Fortune island. The shipwrecked men were forwarded to this port by the Norwegian consul. Capt. Thorbjørnsen stayed at Fortune island to look after the owners' interests.

The other five shipwrecked seamen embarked at Nuevitas. They were from the American schooner Hattie Godfrey which was lost on Pomano reef while on the voyage from Batacoa to Havana. The schooner was a total loss.

REBELS AGGRESSIVE.

The American Forces Garrisoning the Town of Yamaga Pacan Attacked By the Filipinos.

Manila, March 26.—La Patria and El Liberal, Spanish organs of the extreme Filipino party, have recently been publishing articles inimical to the military government. Gen. Otis has suppressed the former journal for sedition and imprisoned the editor, at the same time issuing a warning to the members of the extreme party that they should observe greater moderation.

Senor Paterno, at one time president of the so-called Filipino cabinet, having received permission from the authorities to come to Manila, is expected to present himself this week at San Fernando, province of Union.

The rebels in Gen. Young's district are becoming aggressive. The American battalion garrisoning the town of Yamaga Pacan was attacked on four consecutive nights recently. Reinforcements are now arriving there. Gen. Young purposes to pursue the rebels aggressively before the rainy season sets in.

Horse Show in Chicago.

Chicago, March 25.—The National Horse Breeders' Dealers and Exhibitors' association, now holding their annual meeting in this city, unanimously decided Friday night to revive the horse show in Chicago. The date will either be the last week in November, immediately after the New York horse show, or during the first week in December.

Unconscious When Found.

Chicago, March 25.—A man supposed from papers found in his pocket to be E. H. Jones, well dressed, and with $85 in his pocket, was found unconscious from the effects of supposed opium poison in the rear of a billiard academy on Dearborn street. He died without regaining consciousness.

Miners' Wages Advanced.

Philadelphia, March 26.—The Berwind-White Coal Mining Co. has notified all its miners of a general advance of 20 per cent. The miners are now placed upon a basis of 50 cents per gross ton, and all day labor increased accordingly.

Will Photograph the Eclipse.

Washington, March 26.—Extensive preparations are being made at the United States naval observatory for photographing and observing the total eclipse of the sun, which occurs on May 28.

From Washington

How a Little Boy Was Saved.

Washington, D. C.—"When our boy was about 16 months old he broke out with a rash which was thought to be measles. In a few days he had a swelling on the left side of his neck and it was decided to be mumps. He was given medical attendance for about three weeks when the doctor said it was scrofula and ordered a salve. He wanted to lance the sore, but I would not let him, and continued giving him medicine for about four months, when the bunch broke in two places and became a running sore. Three doctors said it was scrofula, and each ordered a blood medicine. A neighbor told me of a case somewhat like our baby's which was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I decided to give it to my boy and in a short while his health improved and his neck healed so nicely that I stopped giving him the medicine. The sore broke out again, however, whereupon I again gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and its persistent use has accomplished a complete cure." MRS. NETTIE CHASE, 47 K St., N. E.

One of Glen McDonough's Jokes.

In one of his farces Glen McDonough had written two or three lines to be spoken by a chorus girl. The lines were given to a green, heavy amateur, who looked well and would do. At the rehearsal the girl made her way to McDonough, who held the book, and said: "Mr. McDonough, I have a line in the first act and one in the third. Couldn't you write me one for the second act, too?" McDonough thought a minute, looked at the girl and said: "Yes; in the banquet scene you enter and say: 'Here is the ham.'" "Oh, do I bring the ham on with me?" "No, my dear; it is not a speech, it is a confession."—Chicago Chronicle.

Gov. BECKHAM has approved the Re-lick bill, conditionally revoking the charters of the branch bank of Kentucky, the Farmers' Bank of Kentucky, and the Deposit Bank of Frankfort.

Sergt. Golden's Trial.

The trial of Sergt. Wharton Golden was continued at Frankfort yesterday. Golden was cross-examined by Governor Brown. The witness took sick again and had to be taken out for fresh air. During the session Judge Denny and Lawyer Tom Campbell had a lively tilt, the lie being passed by Denny. Guns were pulled and a riot was imminent for a few moments, but there was no trouble. Soldiers and deputy sheriffs are still on guard at the court house. Golden's trial will be continued to-day. His testimony is printed on page three.

More Bills Approved.

Gov. BECKHAM Tuesday morning approved of and signed eight more bills left on his desk at the close of the legislative session. The most important was the one regulating annual tax levies in the city of Louisville.

The others were:
An act to amend and re-enact an act entitled an act fixing the times and terms of Circuit Courts in the Commonwealth so far as same applies to the Fifth, Ninth and Tenth Circuit Court districts.

An act changing the time of holding court in the Fifth judicial district, so that there will be no sessions of the court during the month of August.

An act regulating school levies in cities of the second class.

An act providing that it shall be lawful to construct bridges over any navigable stream, the navigable portions of which lie wholly within the limits of the State of Kentucky, after the plans have been approved by the Secretary of War.

An act authorizing the condemnation of lands and material for the use of oil and gas pipe lines, declaring such a public use.

An act to incorporate the town of Kirkmanville, in Todd county, for the purpose of taxation.

An act allowing the insurance companies organized in the State to loan money outside the State.

Is Thirteen A Hoodoo?

THE Lexington Leader says: "Conductor W. H. Kirby, of the Maysville division of the L. & N. road, said this morning, if he was at all superstitious about the number thirteen he would feel uneasy, as this was the thirteenth anniversary of his marriage and he also landed thirteen passengers at the depot here this morning."

George T. Weddle, of New Albany, Ind., the one-legged railroad conductor who lost his job on the Air Line a few months ago, has issued a card bearing the following: "Beware of No. 13. I was born June 13, 1864; married December 13, 1885; lost my leg April 13, 1886, on section 13, 1887, 13 months after marrying her; lost my job November 13, 1899, and have 13 letters in my name."

Sketch of Paris Promised.

THE Morning Herald, of Lexington, will, on next Sunday April 1st inaugurate a series of sketches of the best towns of the Blue Grass, with a description of Paris. Mr. Sidney A. Smith, a staff correspondent of the Herald, was here last week securing data for this article, which will be of special interest to our citizens.

The sketch will set forth many of the features of interest about Paris, dwelling upon the inducements that can be offered people of other states to locate in this vicinity. It will discuss the tax rate, price of fuel, freight rates and other points of commercial and business interest.

Half-tone cuts of several of our prominent citizens will be printed as well as a picture of the Court House and other buildings.

Next Sunday's issue of The Herald will be eagerly watched for in Paris.

PROF. EDWIN BOONE, the hypnotist, who has made such wonderful success in the West, North and South, will appear at the Grand on April 16th. He will give the best performance he has ever given anywhere, and his stage settings will be something elegant. He will have a hypnotized subject on exhibition in Saloshin & Co.'s window, at Seventh and Main, from Saturday until Monday.

A. O. U. W. Entertainment.

The A. O. U. W. entertainment at the Grand last night was a pleasant affair and was pronounced a complete success. A pleasing musical program was rendered, and Supreme Master Workman Kinsley delivered an instructive lecture.

Before the entertainment at the Grand the A. O. U. W. and its guests sat down to a splendid banquet at the Fordham. Landlord Dan Connors and Miss Josie Cronnan prepared a most inviting menu for the lodge men and they did ample justice to the banquet.

New Fire Apparatus.

THE new combined hose wagon and chemical fire engine, which the City Council purchased from the Fire Extinguisher Manufacturing Co., of Chicago, arrived Saturday and was given a public trial yesterday afternoon on Broadway in front of THE NEWS office.

A pile of boxes and barrels, twenty feet long and fifteen feet high, was saturated with coal oil, and set on fire, and in less time almost than it takes to tell it, the leaping flames were extinguished by the chemical engine. The test was witnessed by an immense crowd, including a party of Lexington citizens who came down to see the new engine, and was pronounced a wonderful success. The test was made by Mr. T. R. Polglace, of Chicago, who sold the engine and hose wagon to the city. He was assisted by Firemen Ed Eite and Chas Dualey.

The new wagon carries a fifty gallon chemical tank under the driver's seat, charged with soda and acid, 200 feet of chemical hose, two small Babcock fire extinguishers, 1,000 feet of regular fire hose, two fourteen foot ladders which splice to twenty-four feet, two pike poles, one twenty foot scaling ladder, tool box, axes, lantern, and has a twelve inch nicked gong. The wagon weighs 5,000 pounds and carries six men. It cost $1,700, the old hand engine being traded in at $200. A brass plate on the front of the wagon bears the names of Mayor Benj. Perry and the Fire Committee, Messrs. James O'Brien, Wm. Remington and Hugh Montgomery.

Chief Walter Davis City Electrician Ed Hite, and Driver Thos. Maginley are proud of the new wagon. It will prove a valuable addition to the fire department and will save hundreds of dollars worth of goods that might be ruined by water.

The new wagon, with the Mayor and Councilmen, went up to the 3.30 train to meet the Lexington visitors, and brought down town Chief Muir and seven city officials.

Easter Millinery Displays.

Mrs. George Rion will have on exhibition on Friday and Saturday, April 6th and 7th, a fine display of choice Easter millinery. Her stock has been selected with great care and it includes the choicest pattern hats and bonnets in the wholesale houses. Mrs. Rion has engaged Miss Cienier, a lady of unquestioned taste, to assist her this season, and the ladies of Bourbon and surrounding counties may confidently expect to treat their eyes to a millinery feat when they visit Mrs. Rion's Easter display. Remember the dates, April 6th and 7th.

Circuit Court News.

THE grand jury made its last report Saturday and was dismissed after being complimented by Judge Cantrill for its excellent work. It reported indictments against Leroy McDowell and James Brown for wilfully and unnecessarily exposing to inclement weather a child under sixteen years of age; Leroy McDowell, perjury; Frank Collier, C. W. Howard, James and Joseph Connell, selling cigarette material to minors; L. Saloshin & F. McDermott, selling liquor to minors; Charles Thompson, hog stealing; Robert Sparks, malicious striking; Wm. Leer, obtaining goods under false pretenses. The grand jury praised the manner in which Supt. Bedford runs the County Infirmary, and complimented Jailer Kiser for the neat condition of the jail. The grand jury also gave suggestions regarding the turnpikes, and praised the prompt and valued assistance rendered by Sheriff Bowen and Deputy Sheriffs Mitchell and Burke and Constable Williams.

The Circuit Court has been occupied since Saturday in hearing equity cases, and the docket is being disposed of.

The argument in the suit of Wm. Hunkill vs. Agricultural Bank began Saturday morning, R. C. Talbott making the opening speech for the bank, followed by Judge Mann for the plaintiff. W. H. McMillan then spoke for the bank and T. E. Ashbrook closed the argument for the plaintiff. The case was given to the jury at five o'clock, and at five o'clock yesterday afternoon the jury reported that it could not make a verdict. The jury stood six to six.

MRS. M. PARKER and Miss Marie O'Rourke are busily engaged this week preparing for the annual display of Easter millinery which will occur on Friday and Saturday, April 6th and 7th, at Mrs. Parker's store.

Religious News.

REV. CARPENTER, of Richmond, preached two excellent sermons at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, in this city Sunday. Miss Anna Lee Washington, of Newport, added to the beauty of the services by singing two beautiful solos, her rich soprano being heard to fine advantage. Rev. Meredith filled Rev. Carpenter's pulpit in Richmond.

The Episcopal, Methodist and Second Presbyterian churches held services Sunday afternoon instead of evening on account of the accident to the electric light plant leaving them without light.

LOST.—Thursday night between the opera house and Eighth street, a valuable hair comb. Finder will please return to THE NEWS office and receive suitable reward. (20-3t)

GLUTEN FEED

For cattle, sheep and mules. This highly recommended feed contains twice as much fat and muscle forming material, pound for pound, as corn or bran. (So says the Agricultural Experiment Station.)

This feed is bulky and is the very thing to feed with shelled corn to prevent stock from eating corn too fast. We will sell it much cheaper than corn will cost. Put up in long sacks, 120 lbs. to a sack. Several cattle and mules feeders in this county are using this feed and are highly pleased with it.

If you cannot read this small print at a distance of 14 inches your eyesight is failing and should have immediate attention:

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centred and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and consequently of greatest durability, united with the utmost lightness and elegance. When both frames and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy Imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Next visit—Thursday, March 29, 1900. Hello, 170.

Teeth Made from Paper.

Teeth of paper make the latest in dentistry. By a peculiar process they are rendered better than any other material. Paper teeth may be fine, but we will venture that most people prefer their own, and this may best be accomplished by keeping the stomach healthy with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The condition of the stomach invariably affects the teeth. The Bitters will strengthen your stomach, cure dyspepsia and biliousness.

No Wonder He Smelled It.

A commercial traveler whose wife is one of those women who borrow trouble indiscriminately had occasion to make a trip east recently.

His wife was very anxious about him and felt certain that he would fall a victim to smallpox, which was reported to be prevalent in the city to which he was going. She begged him to carry a little lump of assafetida in his pocket to ward off contagion.

Naturally he objected and positively refused to be made the permanent abode of such a persistent odor.

When he came home from his trip he said to his wife:

"It is wonderful, the power of the imagination. Why, don't you know I imagined that I smelled assafetida the whole time I was gone!"

"It wasn't imagination at all," quietly replied the wily little woman. "I sewed a bit of assafetida in the corner of your coat before you went away!"—Memphis Scimitar.

LIGHT.

The very first requirement of the primitive man is food, the next, clothing, the next shelter and then he passes from the requirements of the purely animal body to those of a little higher plane and demands light and heat and companionship. In the process of evolution the very first evidence of a development beyond the animal stage, in which man was a carnivorous beast of prey, killing and devouring, raw, animals less strong than himself, was the employment of fire for heat, for light, and later for cooking.

It is strange that nature should have so fashioned adult man that he cannot pass as much of the time in sleep as she has given over to darkness, and it is to correct this fault in his structure that for all time man has devoted a large part of his energies towards producing means for artificial illumination which would lengthen the day and shorten the night.

The demand for light is as natural a demand as that for food. An evidence of the fact that this is a natural demand, is the rapidity with which any industry supplying a satisfactory light grows. Perhaps the largest industrial concerns in the world are engaged in the work of dispelling the darkness after the sun has ceased to shine.

A marvelous new chemical compound which when brought in contact with water would give off a gas possessing fifteen times the illuminating value of ordinary gas, was discovered by accident at a small North Carolina village on May 4th, 1892. Nothing was done with the discovery until 1895, when a company to exploit it was formed. Since then its growth and development has been without parallel in the industrial history of America.

The new substance "Carbide" in appearance resembles dark granite and as ordinarily crushed the pieces average about the size of egg coal. Carbide is inert, will not burn, is non-inflammable and can be handled in any quantity with perfect safety. Calcium Carbide is produced by the fusion and reduction in an electric furnace of a mixture of finely ground and intimately mixed lime and coke.

There have been passed and pronounced safe by the Boards of Fire Insurance over eighty different kinds of generators for producing Acetylene from the union of Calcium Carbide and water, and the sales of Calcium Carbide for a single day have been in excess of 300 tons.

When it is considered that less than four years ago there was not an Acetylene generator on the market and the very name Acetylene itself was unknown outside of technical chemical laboratories, this progress seems truly marvelous and is explainable only by the fact that Acetylene is truly an extraordinarily brilliant, cheap, safe and satisfactory light, that it possesses many advantages not common to any other artificial illuminant, and that it reaches and appeals to a class of isolated consumers in villages and on farms away from gas and electric mains and supplies—a long and sorely felt want.

Acetylene is produced by the simple combination of calcium carbide and water, the former is now procurable readily and at small cost. Any mechanic can install the generator. Any member of the family can manipulate it. It causes no odor, soot, or smoke. The flame from the Acetylene is clear and brilliant, the very essence of light. Owing to its richness it is consumed in very small burners. An Acetylene flame the size of a thumb nail gives as much light as an ordinary flame from city gas thirteen times as large.

Signal, Cant Signal.

"I was much amused," said Cawker to Cusmo, "at what a returned Klondiker told me of the customs of the gold mines." "Interesting and funny, were they?" "He said that in his shanty six men slept together. They all lay in a row, like spoons in a case, facing one way, to keep warm. When one of them became tired of lying on one side he would call out 'Lawyer,' and they would all turn at once."

"Why did they use the word 'lawyer'?" "That meant 'Lie on the other side,'" Judge.

It is not always the most successful fisherman who can tell the most catchy story—Star of Hope.

SLEEPING ROOMS.

Proper Renovation Promptly Done Prevents Many Annoyances Which Later Might Come.

The coming of spring suggests to the housekeeper the days of house cleaning and that period when all things must be renovated. Sleeping-rooms demand attention early, because insect pests awake to new life with the first beams of the spring sun. Systematic housekeepers make a business of brushing out all the corners and crevices of all bedsteads at this season and putting in fresh insect powder or moistening all the inside portion where vermin may find a lurking place with a strong disinfectant. If vermin are present this is not enough, but it is a sufficient precaution against their presence. There is not the slightest excuse for the presence of insect pests in the country, where houses are isolated. In the city vile insects can easily travel from one house to another, and the battle against them must be constant.

It is the fashion to furnish sleeping-rooms simply. They should be ideally neat, well ventilated, with sunny windows, where the bedclothes can be aired and disinfected by having the sun shine on them. Heavy draperies impede ventilation. Carpets gather dust, and numberless germs, therefore. The most desirable bedroom floors are of hard wood or painted, varnished wood, with rugs to cover those portions where there is most wear. Excellent bedroom rugs that are very pretty and durable are made of old ingrain carpets picked apart and woven into new rugs. The best pattern is a simple hit and miss design. The cost of making these rugs is about one dollar a yard, or the price of a new ingrain carpet, but they are much heavier and more durable than ingrain carpetings. Wall coverings should be of delicate, simple design; some housekeepers object to wall paper, and prefer to have their walls painted or "tinted in distemper," which is treated with colored kalsomine. The kalsomine is more expensive and no more durable. Enamelled wood furniture continues to be popular. Old wooden bedroom furniture can be refinished in this way: First rub off the furniture with sandpaper and have it painted over with one or two coats of the color to be enamelled; then sandpaper down smooth, paint it again and finish in a coat of enamel. Be careful the last coat of paint is dry before adding another. Wooden bedsteads are quite generally superseded by metal bedsteads in handsome sleeping-rooms. They are more easily kept dusted, and bedding is more exposed to the air than in a wooden bedstead.—N. Y. Tribune.

Preferred Speech.

The spirit of love and kindness to all, which pervades every word and deed of Phillips Brooks, did not hinder his keen perception of others' failings and shortcomings, or his own. "Why in the world doesn't Brown write his autobiography, and have it published?" said one of the bishop's friends, referring to an incessant talker and most egotistical man, who had been wasting an hour of the bishop's precious time by a rehearsal of some unimportant happenings. "Why, he'd rather tell it, of course," said the bishop; and then like a flash came regret for the quickly spoken truth, and he turned on his friend with a half-humorous, half-distressed face. "What do you mean by asking me such a question as that when I'm off my guard?" he demanded, reproachfully.—Youth's Companion.

A Bit Rough.

In the course of the fearful march of the Irish fusiliers from Dundee to Ladysmith the men were much fatigued, owing to the rough journey. One man in particular stumbled along as if walking in his sleep. An officer passed.

"Sir," asked Michael, "what country is this at all we're marching over?" "The Natal table-land, my man," was the reply.

"Bedad, sir," said Pat, "I think the table's turned upside down and we're walking over the legs of it."—London Answers.

THE TEEMING WEST.

The Prairie Lands of Western Canada Being Filled with Excellent Settlers.

The salient fact that presents itself in taking a bird's-eye view of the Canadian West, is that of intense activity in every department. Whether the glance be turned upon the district east of Winnipeg, the Red River Valley south or north, the Dauphin and M. & N. W. district, the South-western, or whether it take in the great central division along the main line of the C. P. R. stretching away out to the Rockies and from there bending north and south to Prince Albert and Edmonton, Meleod and Lethbridge—whether the examination be made in any of these directions the same activity, growth and hopefulness is observable.

The Canadian west is not only a good place to locate permanently, but it is also a good place to invite their relatives and friends to come to. This is the spirit that seems to animate the west at the present time and its effects are to be seen on every hand. To enumerate the towns where handsome and substantial blocks and residences have gone up this year would be simply to give a list of the towns and villages along the railway lines. And this movement has not been confined to these centers of population, but in many cases it has been overshadowed by the improvement in farm buildings.

So far as one can see, this is no passing phase, no repetition of any temporary boom following a period of good crops and fair prices. It is a movement more spontaneous, more general, more marked than anything that has gone before, and seems to indicate that the Great West, like Samson, bursting the encompassing bands, has awakened to a period of activity and development that will surpass anything we have known in the past and which will only be paralleled by the opening out of some of the most fertile of the western states of the union.

Look at some of the figures. Over a thousand schools in Manitoba and the number going up by leaps and bounds. Something like five hundred schools in the Territories. Winnipeg as representing the gateway of the west, the third city in the Dominion in regard to bank clearings, postal business and probably in regard to customs: the custom return at Winnipeg running about thirty to forty per cent. greater month by month than in the fiscal year of 1897-8, the largest previous year for actual business entries, when over $900,000 was paid through the Winnipeg office for duty. The C. P. R. and Canada Northwest land sales together running over $1,500,000 for the year. These, and a thousand more signs show how the west has leaped into new life.

This is an inspiring and cheering spectacle, but it brings with it great responsibilities. The business men realize this, the banks realize it, and have spread their agencies through every bustling little town clear out to the coast, the churches realize it, and one denomination alone has opened an average of about thirty new stations in each of the past two years, and will increase this in the year now entered upon. The government departments realize it, and there is talk of redistribution and additional members. The educational branches realize it and new schools are springing up everywhere. Over 12,000 settlers came in from the United States alone last year, and these with the people who came in from the east prove the most rigorous Westerners. They lose no time in developing their farms, in filling their grazing lands with stock and in every district is to be found evidences of thrift and prosperity.

Heathen Gratitude.

An amateur philanthropist took charge of a Sunday school class of Chinamen on the East side. The members were zealous to learn, and the intelligent responses of his favorite pupil caused the teacher to glow with pride. After some months this pupil began walking part of the way home with the teacher, and one Sunday afternoon, in a burst of confidence, he said, earnestly: "I want to thank you for you kind to poor heathen. I know English now pretty good. I got place to work as interpreter gambling house. I put you on good thing!"—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is often ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. O, How Happy I am to BE FREE from

NEURALGIA

Is what Mrs. Archie Young of 1817 Oaks Ave., West Superior, Wis., writes us on Jan. 25th, 1900. "I am so thankful to be able to say that your SWANSON'S '5 DROPS' is the best medicine I have ever used in my life. I sent for some last November and commenced using it right away and it helped me from the first dose. Oh, I cannot explain to you how I was suffering from neuralgia. It seemed that death was near at hand. I thought no one could be worse. I was so very weak that I hardly expected to live to see my husband come back from his daily labor. But now I am free from pain, my cheeks are red, and I sleep well the whole night through. Many of my friends are so surprised to see me looking so well that they will send for some of your '5 DROPS'."

"I have been afflicted with rheumatism for 2 years. I was in bed with it when I saw your advertisement in a paper, recommending SWANSON'S '5 DROPS' very highly. I thought I would try it. It has completely cured me, but I like it so well that I want two more bottles for fear I will get into the same fix I was before I sent for '5 DROPS'." writes Mr. Alexander Futrell of Vandalia, Ark., Feb. 6th, 1900.

In the most powerful specific known. Free from opiates and perfectly harmless. It gives almost instantaneous relief, and is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Headache, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuritic Headaches, Earache, Toothache, Heart Weakness, Dropsy, Catarrh, Crouping Numbness, etc., etc.

30 DAYS to enable sufferers to give "5 DROPS" at least a trial, we will send a 25c sample bottle, prepaid by mail for 10c. A sample bottle will convince you. Also, large bottle $1.00. Sold by us and agents. AGENTS WANTED in New Territory. Write us to-day.

Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.

My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was spared that we thought would relieve him, but he grew worse until his condition was indeed pitiable. I had almost despaired of his ever being cured, when by the advice of a friend we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). A decided improvement was the result, and after he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew of his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.

For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific, reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mother's Friend takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

Sold by druggists for $1 a bottle.

Question Answered.

Yes August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers, and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries. oct-27-ly

Jones Chain Mower.

ONE

Of the leading Implement Journals of America says editorially of the Jones Chain Mower: "The Plano Manufacturing Company, Chicago, is distancing all competitors with its popular Jones Chain Mower. It is probably the lightest draft and longest lived mower made, and is everywhere taking the lead over the old type of geared mowers. It is a recognized fact that the most expert mechanical engineers are abandoning cog wheels and adopting the sprocket and chain where direct power with the least friction is required. The most striking example of this is the use of sprocket and chain power on the great Ferris wheel. It is also used on mammoth ditching machines, traction engines, etc. This, beyond a doubt, proves its strength. Where speed and light running are required, the use of sprocket and chain is cited on bicycles. These are scientific facts which cannot well be talked down by competitors of the Jones Chain Mower." For sale by W. F. PEDDICORD, Centerville, Ky.

IS THE NAME.

MARCH 31,
THE DATE.

When we will open here, in Paris, a first-class, up-to-date

Dry Goods Store

In the room formerly occupied by Mr. Condon, 505 Main street, Newport's Block. We do not come here as entire strangers, for many of you know of us by reputation, as we have been located in Carlisle for the past thirteen years and in Flemingsburg four years. We shall make Paris our headquarters and distributing point, and this store will be under the personal management of Mr. Heyman, who is now in the Eastern markets to purchase the new stock. Having three stores, we purchase in large quantities, thus securing unusually low prices. In Dress Goods—Woolen or Silk—we arrange our purchases and divide among our several stores so that each has only

ONE PATTERN OF A KIND.

THIS MEANS—

EXCLUSIVE STYLES.

It is our aim to handle FIRST-CLASS, UP-TO-DATE GOODS, and sell them at the LOWEST PRICES FOR CASH ONLY.

THIS MEANS—

ONE PRICE TO ALL.

Our method of doing business is known to many of you—everything not cut especially for you and found contrary to expectation, can be returned to us and the money will be cheerfully refunded. We treat all alike, have ONE PRICE and sell for

CASH ONLY.

When we open, we ask your careful and critical inspection of our stock, and whether you come to buy or look, we shall feel honored by your presence, and take pleasure in showing you our goods. Respectfully,

G. L. HEYMAN.

SOME SPRING THOUGHTS.

The coming of Spring brings to ladies and gentlemen thoughts of Spring clothes. The ladies are advised that we have a choice line of Spring dress goods of newest patterns to select from.

Gentlemen like Spring clothes, too. We have already sold a number of made-to-order Spring suits for Easter. Come in and look at our line. We can get your suit made by Easter if you come at once, and we'll save you money.
